A focal point of the Lanesville Heritage Weekend is the historical Mail Pouch Tobacco Barn, on the east end of town. The barn and surrounding land was acquired by the Lanesville Heritage Committee in 1989 from Bob Shellenberger.

The barns were deemed historic landmarks thereby escaping the Highway Beautification Program of the mid-1960s, restricting advertisements along the highway. The Lanesville barn is registered on the Ohio River Scenic Byway.

Taking place over three full days, Lanesville Heritage Weekend is in the top 4% of the 500+ Indiana Festivals.

Last year over 210,000 individuals saw Lanesville Heritage Weekend Facebook posts and visited the website in the four months surrounding the festival. Our festival crowds have been estimated as high as 80,000 with a mixture of locals and visitors alike.
